CITY PIN HITTERS ORGANIZE SCRATCH LEAGUE TONIGHT
Local swatters of the pin will gather Friday night at the Fastlane bowling alley to perfect plans for the season's bowling.
Plans now call for the organization of a scratch league of at least six teams and possibly more, all picked from Mishawaka. If the pin swatching enthusiasts cannot muster enough material for six teams, then they will have three teams from Mishawaka and three from South Bend for the bowling season.
The ladies of the Mico-Kin team, an auxiliary of the K. of C., will enter the lists with a team of their own and play Wednesday nights. Much interest centers in the Mico-Kin team.
A business meeting will precede the organization of the scratch league and plans made for a season of bowling that are expected to eclipse the record for former years.

CENTURY.
Vaudeville and pictures are the attraction at the Century theater tonight and tomorrow afternoon and night, with the Three Astellas featured in their original tumbling comedy. Some good tricks are executed by this trio who blend pantomime and clowning in their offering. Howard and Graff, presenting "The Juggler's Dream," are a clever young pair who manipulate objects in a dexterous manner. Laura Marsh, a maid with an excellent singing voice and whose personal charm adds to her act, is offered in a new play, more features instrument imitations and also has a smart line of comedy patter.

One of the best plays to be transferred to the screen in a long time is "Colorado," the five-part feature starring Frank Mayo in another romantic role and offered as an addition to the variety program. Written by Augustus Thomas. It has all the elements that go to make a dramatic success. A Century comedy, "A Dollar's Worth," is also shown.

AMUSEMENT NEWS

CASTLE

William S. Hart as author and star of "O'Malley of the Mounted," plays his fourth and last successful day here at the Castle today. Eva Novak and a notable supporting cast assist in this story of adventure and romance. A special booking has been made for Sunday.

LASALLE

"The Love Special," featuring Wallace Reid, Agnes Ayres, Theodore Roberts, Julia Faye and Clarence Burton, in a new railroad romance, completes its local showings today at the LaSalle, giving way for a one-day run of the new Elaine Hammerstein feature, "Remorseless Love," billed for Sunday, following which will come "Life," a William A. Brady spectacle, said to be one of the costliest productions current on the screen.

OLIVER

"Aphrodite," the world's greatest spectacle, stirred up so much discussion at the Century theater, New York, and recently broke all records for theatrical receipts at the Auditorium, Chicago, may be seen at the Oliver theater again this afternoon. There will be no performance of "Aphrodite" tonight. Its story is based upon the famous French literary classic of the same name by Pierre Louys, which was first published in Paris in 1895. As a footling of a romance of ancient Egypt in the days when gods of card and idol rule ruled the tempestuous passions of men, this spectacle is one of the most thrilling, as well as intoxicating, that the modern stage has yet witnessed. Nearly 200 people are employed in its telling, and there are 10 enormous scenes. The ballet trained by the famous Fokine is comprised solely of American girls selected for their youthful grace and beauty.

OLIVER

As soon as the curtain falls this afternoon at the Oliver on the final scene of "Aphrodite," the stage will be immediately cleared and arrangements made for the opening performance of the Dunbar Opera company tomorrow night. Already their scenic artist, Mr. James Donnerman, has completed two elaborate settings for the opening bill, having occupied the "paint bridge" of the theater for the past week.

"The Friendly" has been selected for the premier attraction of this excellent organization that has occupied the Ramona theater at Grand Rapids during the summer and concludes a most successful engagement in Fort Wayne tonight. The pleasing light opera with book and lyrics by Otto Hauerback and Rudolph Friml was produced 10 years ago and has been a popular success ever since. Mr. Friml will be remembered for his other pleasing opera, "High Jinks." The Dunbar Opera company contains a number of high class soloists, clever comedians and a youthful chorus of girl singers and dancers.

BLACKSTONE

In addition to appearing in the costume of a French maid, Constance Talmadge will be seen in some very smart and up-to-the-minute styles in "Lessons in Love," which will have its final showings tonight. The play is one of her best vehicles. She is supported by an all star cast which includes Flora Finch, who was the first comic actress to appear in the silent drama. It was while making this production that Constance Talmadge eloped. After a short honeymoon she returned and finished "Lessons in Love," in which she proves that marriages are failures.

One of the finest casts ever assembled will be seen in "The Old Maid," the Rupert Hughes story of mother love and American family life, that will be shown at the Blackstone theater for a one week's engagement beginning tomorrow. The story is a film version of a short story that appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, and was produced by the Goldwyn company. The direct or, Reginald Barker, is well known for the many fine productions he has made for Goldwyn. In the cast Mary Alden plays the leading role, that of the mother, who appears first as the young matron with her six children of school age, and then a little older, with graying hair. She is their companion and adviser. Finally, they grow to manhood and womanhood, leave the old nest and strike out into the world for themselves. Here, the poignancy of Miss Alden's acting as the old mother is irrefutable.

Other players in the cast are beautiful Helen Chadwick, Cullen Landis, Louis Lovely, Billy Cotton and many other well known film celebrities to theatergoers in South Bend.

Special musical settings are now being arranged by Angelo Vitale, musical director of the Blackstone Symphony orchestra to fittingly synchronize with this production.

AUDITORIUM

"The Galloping Devil," the newest Franklin Farnum picture, is shown today at the Auditorium for the first time. It is a story of an easy-going peace-loving cowboy who seldom carries a gun and has a reputation for avoiding arguments and the fights they often lead to in the western country, preferring to entertain himself and his comrades with amusing tales of wild adventure in the past, in which he usually figures as the hero. The picture is said to be remarkable for its story-scenic effects, and the acting of the entire company.

Other pictures to be shown are the latest events in Pathe News and a very funny Hank Mann comedy. Tomorrow brings pretty Carmel Myers in a stirring story of the Ghetto in lower New York's East Side, entitled "Cheated Love." A new chapter of "The White Horseman" and Susan Roland in his latest comedy are additional features.
